WE, SE, I, DIV and E requirements: Many of the writing emphasis (WE), Speaking emphasis (SE), Interdisciplinary (I), Diverse communities (DIV) and Ethics (E) courses can be taken as part of the LIN major courses, i.e., it's not necessary to take courses outside of the major to satisfy most of these requirements. Students will work with their advisor to identify courses that can satisfy LIN BA major and WE, SE, I, DIV and E requirements.

Transfer students: Depending on the number of courses transferred to WCU, students may be required to complete fewer Gen-Ed, WE, SE, I, DIV and E requirements. Satisfied requirements will be posted on the student's Degree Audit on RamPortal.

Language Requirement

Term	Requirement	Comments
	Language 101
	Language 102
	Language 201
	Language 202

Language minors: If the student completes four semesters in a language, only two more semesters (18 credits total) will give them a language minor. Students will work with their advisor to assess whether this is an option.

Double majors: If the student is a double major and the other major requires a language, that language covers the Linguistics B.A. language requirement.

Proficiency requirement: The language requirement can also be satisfied if the student already has sufficient proficiency in a language other than English that is equal or higher than the equivalent of the 202 level. Students should contact the Department of Languages and Cultures assesses whether they can satisfy their language requirement this way: <https://www.wcupa.edu/arts-humanities/languagescultures/contact.aspx>

Culture cluster option: Linguistics majors do not have access to the culture cluster option to satisfy their language requirement.

Transfer students: Because transfer students typically have a shorter timeline towards graduation, it is critical that they start their language requirement courses as soon as possible.

Electives

(to complete 120 credits for graduation)

Term	Elective course	Comments

Minors and/or double majors: Linguistics majors are strongly encouraged to use their elective courses to get to 120 credits for graduation to fulfill the requirements of minors or even a double major. Minors and/or double majors will broaden your knowledge of content and skills in other areas, and will become an important qualification in your future professional life. Linguistics majors are encouraged to start a conversation about the feasibility of one (or several) minors and/or a double major as early as possible in their WCU career. Keep in mind that majors and minors that offer 'double dipping' opportunities via LIN elective courses (including ENG, ANT, or a language major) are particularly easy to complete in conjunction with a Linguistics BA.

Transfer courses: Students may be allowed to transfer courses to apply to their WCU career. Please note that, as per university policy, 50% of the courses in a student's major area of concentration must be completed at WCU for graduation. All transfer courses will post with a T grade. No transfer course can be used to replace an F grade in a WCU course, although they can be used to satisfy General Education requirements. Please consult approved General Education equivalences as posted on the WCU Transfer Credit Center:

<https://www.wcupa.edu/registrar/transfercredit.aspx>.

For LIN major courses specifically, all transfers will have to be pre-approved by the Linguistics Program Director.
